Dairy Cows THIS WEEK Subject To "Ketosis"

Even cows are subject to "ketosis" disease problems. Authorities of the American Foundation for Animal Health pointed out today that many high-producing dairy cows are stricken with "ketosis" within 10 to 90 days after their calves are born. These authorities said that many farmers do not recognize the great amount of energy used by the high-producing cow at the peak of milk output, and that many do not understand the great amount of feed a cow requires if she is to produce at her maximum. The disease usually is caused when the cow does not receive balanced nutrition to maintain both her weight and full milk production. Foundation officials said ketosis could also be a secondary condition resulting from a disease which suppressed the appetite, constipation, depressed appearance, a starting expression, rapid loss of body weight, and a drop in milk production. The sick animal also may show signs of incoordination. Some cows may become lethargic; others may be excitable. Method for treating the disease depends upon whether the veterinarian's diagnosis shows that the ketosis condition is primary, or is a secondary result of another disease, the Foundation said. Cows susceptible to ketosis should be put on a high energy level diet while pregnant, and the energy intake gradually increased after the calf is born. It also suggested that a drastic change in environment be avoided to lessen the stress on the cow.

Democratic leader is casting about for a Presidential candidate in 1960 have put Texas rancher Lyndon Baines Johnson near the top of their "shopping list". He is available. Better known as Senator Johnson.

Most of the time he worked for the President on issues where there was a difference of opinion, as in the civil rights battle. Johnson's ranking as the second most powerful man in government was from his own abilities, plus his position as Majority Leader, and chairman of the important Democratic Policy and Democratic Steering Committees.

What sort of man he is, what are his interests, how does he live and operate? Will he one day be President of the United States? The answers could sway the future of the world.

Johnson, just one week past 48, is a quiet, unassuming man by Texas standard. The force of his character and ability lies deep, rather than on the surface. He is a forceful speaker, but not an orator of the William Jennings Bryan order.

In Washington he has few interests other than his family and the Senate. He and Mrs. Johnson (she calls her Lady Bird) attend a minimum of social functions. "No time," he explains. He dresses conservatively in Washington, but on his ranch near Johnson City (pop. 683) he goes native Texan with a flair for bright colors. His pride and joy is his herd of white face Herefords.

Johnson first came to Washington in the nineteen-thirties as Secretary to Rep. Richard Kleberg, owner of King Ranch. I met him in his Congressional office in 1937 shortly after his election to the House. He was then only 28 years old and he studied energy from every pore. After five 2-year terms and one special term in the House, he was elected to the Senate in 1948 and re-elected in 1954. He is a member of the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

His workday starts at 7:30 a.m. with a breakfast of fruit and tea or sanka, with dried milk added, and ends somewhere around midnight when he goes home to dinner. In between time he grabs a hamburger, a bowl of soup or a cantaloupe.

His entrance at his office is the

Through a flash of lightning he had noticed the tunnel of an approaching train. It struck the town minutes later.

People lost their lives in Cent. Ohio that night. But many others found shelter, and safety, thanks to the quick thinking and effective action of Engineer Billy Bryant.

Georgia Sets Record For Industry

The year ending has been the best on record for industrial growth in Georgia, with some 300 new additions to the state's manufacturing roster, Scott Candier, Secretary of Commerce, said today.

In his annual report to Governor Marvin Griffin Candier said 160 large plants were established or announced during the year, in addition to nearly 200 smaller manufacturing concerns.

The larger plants alone represented capital investment of approximately $100,000,000—10,000 jobs and a total of more than $32,000,000 annual payroll, he said.

Capital investment in smaller plants total at least $5,000,000 additional, Candier said. He estimated these smaller industries will provide about 1,000 payroll jobs.

In 1955, Candier recalled, Georgia added 267 new industries representing capital investment of $185,000,000.

"On the basis of our 1956 record, it is obvious that Georgia is still far out in front of the rest of the Southeast in the drive for new industry," Candier told the Governor.

He credited much of the interest on the part of out-of-state manufacturers in moving to Georgia to the fact that the state has been establishing branch operations here, to the state's stepped-up advertising and promotional campaign. The last session of the General Assembly increased the advertising budget of the Department of Commerce, and in addition, Georgia's established industrial and commercial interests recently joined with the State Government in a $100,000 national advertising campaign.

Candier also predicted that Georgia's 1956 record will change the state's standing in the nationwide industrial picture. In its most recent survey of manufacturing, released in November, the U. S. Department of Commerce announced that only three other states, California, Texas and Ohio had exceeded Georgia in gaining major manufacturers during the past-war years.

Although 1956 expenditures for enlargements and new equipment in Georgia's established industries are not yet complete, Candier said he was confident this total would exceed that of the preceding year, $150,000,000.

People who can easily pay any price say:

"Pay more... what for? Ford's the buy!"

Why? Because this 1957 Ford gives you the advanced features, the solid ride, the effortless handling that you once expected to find only in expensive cars. And when it comes to looks, where can you find fresher styling than in the sculptured-in steel lines of this new Ford?

Ford's superiority is evident in many places. In the vital rear axle, the pivot point that turns the rear wheels is articulated. . . supported between two anti-friction bearings instead of being "overhung" from a single bearing. This makes operation quieter, smoother and longer-lasting. It's a feature that Ford shares with only one other car maker in the world—Rolls Royce.

Or consider Ford's famous V-8 engine. No other manufacturer in the industry today electronically balances every V-8 engine, while operating under its own power, the way that Ford does. This means that your V-8 engine runs smoother—the finest V-8 in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership.

These are only a few of the important hidden values that are yours in Ford. But they indicate why so many people who can pay almost any price for a car—people who have driven expensive cars for years—are buying Ford today. Action Test this great performing car at your Ford Dealer's just one week. You, too, will say, "Pay more... what for?"

People who can easily pay any price say:

"Pay more... what for? Ford's the buy!"

Why? Because this 1957 Ford gives you the advanced features, the solid ride, the effortless handling that you once expected to find only in expensive cars. And when it comes to looks, where can you find fresher styling than in the sculptured-in steel lines of this new Ford?

Ford's superiority is evident in many places. In the vital rear axle, the pivot point that turns the rear wheels is articulated. . . supported between two anti-friction bearings instead of being "overhung" from a single bearing. This makes operation quieter, smoother and longer-lasting. It's a feature that Ford shares with only one other car maker in the world—Rolls Royce.

Or consider Ford's famous V-8 engine. No other manufacturer in the industry today electronically balances every V-8 engine, while operating under its own power, the way that Ford does. This means that your V-8 engine runs smoother—the finest V-8 in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership.

These are only a few of the important hidden values that are yours in Ford. But they indicate why so many people who can pay almost any price for a car—people who have driven expensive cars for years—are buying Ford today. Action Test this great performing car at your Ford Dealer's just one week. You, too, will say, "Pay more... what for?"

YOU CAN SPEND HUNDREDS MORE . . . BUT YOU CAN'T BUY BETTER THAN THE NEW KIND OF FORD

THIS IS THE EDESEL, Ford Motor Company's newest entry in the medium price car field, available in 18 models in four series—Hardtop, Pacer, Corsair and Citation. The entire line will go on display in all Edsel dealerships Sept. 4th. Shown is the Pacer four-door hardtop. From its vertical grille, dual headlights and wraparound turn indicators through the single chrome side spear and concealed "Teletouch" side scallop, the Edsel gives an impression of motion even when parked. In addition to its dramatic styling, the Edsel offers a wide range of exclusive engineering features including "Teletouch" push button automatic transmission controls located in the steering wheel hub.

Bride-elect Given White Bible

Miss Peggy Stubbs, bride-elect, was presented a white Bible in an impressive service at Calvary Baptist Church Wednesday evening, August 28. Members of the Young Woman's Auxiliary entered carrying hearts edged in gold and bearing portions of their dedications as Mrs. Aubrey Morris, counselor, gave a dedication challenge to Miss Stubbs. The girls were lovely dressed in white and wearing tiaras of flowers in their hair.

Mrs. George Dinnell, Youth Director, challenged Miss Stubbs to continue her work in the Woman's Missionary Union.

Rev. Austel Youmans, Sr. brought an inspiring message, principally in the form of high-temperature alloys, to build a modern jet engine for high-speed aircraft.

To Improve And Extend Sewage

Statesboro's greatly overloaded sewerage system, pronounced "deplorable and inadequate" as far back as February of 1956, will be improved and extended in the year of 1958, according to a statement made this week by Mayor W. A. Bowen.

"The people of Statesboro are already aware that the phenomenal growth of our city over the past several years has rendered our sewerage system completely inadequate. A complete and exhaustive survey recently completed by the engineering firm of Wideman & Simatary of Atlanta has confirmed the pressing need for immediate action. The time has come that the improvement of our sewerage system, including the erection of a new sewage disposal plant, is an absolute necessity for the protection of the health and welfare of our citizens," said the Mayor.

In making the recent report to the City, Bill Green, Wideman-Simatary engineer in charge of the survey, stated that it would require an expenditure of approximately $1,250,000 to give the City of Statesboro a sewerage system to fill it present needs and anticipated needs for the next 25 years. The new area of the City to be annexed to the City as of December 31, 1957, will also be included in the sewerage expansion program.

The expansion and improvement program will be financed by the State of Georgia Anticipation Certificates. A revision of Statesboro's water rates, which have remained among the lowest in the state for over 25 years, and the levy of a sewer service charge will be necessary in order to retire these certificates.

J. Hollis Austin, representative of the J. W. Tindall Company of Atlanta, met with the Mayor and Council in a called meeting last week to discuss the details of financing the proposed revenue certificates.

Good For Poultry, Bad For Cattle

One of the trace minerals in animal feeds, molybdenum, is being considered for addition to poultry feeds, according to a report in Veterinary Medicine, a professional magazine.

Several nutrition experts have reported increases in the rate of growth for poultry which have been fed on a ration with a small amount of molybdenum compound added.

The American Veterinary Medical Association, however, warns farmers against contaminating their feed with this compound.

Pasture grass with as little as 20 parts of molybdenum to one million parts of other grass components produce signs of poisoning in
